Always evolving and not one to stand still and ignore change, Broadland Computers is updating its business strategy

From Tuesday 30th May, we will be re-locating to our registered office at our home in Ingham where we have our purpose built, fully fitted computer workshop. It's much inline with how we operate the shop, just with a bigger workshop area and smaller retail sales area.

Little will change from what you can expect from us. We shall continue providing the same great service and support that we always have to home and business customers, both in our workshop and onsite callouts. Sales and stock of Laptop and Desktop Computers along with associated peripherals, media and consumables won't change either - It will just be less visible!

Not only can you still come and visit us, but with the recent launch of our new website you can now shop with us online to!
